Written Statement of Reasons for Detention

I find that the accusations in the complaint and the information submitted in the Pretrial Services Agency report and at the hearing establish by a preponderance of the evidence that no condition or combination of conditions will reasonably assure the appearance of the defendant as required.

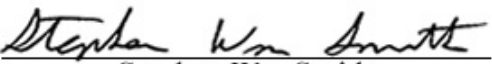

I conclude that the following factors specified in 18 U.S.C. § 3142(g) are present and are to be taken into account:

1. Defendant is a 35-year old naturalized citizen of the United States born and raised in Mexico. He reports living in Illinois, but admits living in Mexico the last six months to attend x-ray technician courses. He has possesses a U.S. passport and has traveled frequently to Mexico over the last few years. His wife and children live in Illinois. His wife reports they are separated due to his long absences from the family to live in Mexico. His father, a legal permanent resident of the U.S., and mother, a naturalized citizen, live in Illinois. He has one sibling living in Illinois, and 5 half siblings with whom he has no contact living in Indiana. He has a sister residing in Mexico.
2. Defendant is accused of conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute methamphetamine in violation of 21 U.S.C. §§ 841 and 846. Defendant faces a potential penalty of 10 years to life in prison.
3. Defendant has been unemployed since 2008 due to disability. He takes medication regularly for pain. He admits a history of mental health issues, and regular use of cocaine and methamphetamine.
4. Defendant's criminal history includes a charge of illegal transportation of alcohol and a felony conviction for possession of a controlled substance, for which he had probation revoked. He faces current state felony charges of manufacture or delivery of a controlled substance.
5. Defendant has not rebutted the statutory presumption that he is a flight risk.
6. There is no condition or combination of conditions of release which would assure the appearance of the defendant in court. Detention is ordered.

Directions Regarding Detention

It is therefore ORDERED that the defendant is committed to the custody of the Attorney General or his designated representative for confinement in a corrections facility separate, to the extent practicable, from persons awaiting or serving sentences or being held in custody pending appeal. The defendant shall be afforded a reasonable opportunity for private consultation with defense counsel. On order of a court of the United States or on request of an attorney for the Government, the person in charge of the corrections facility shall deliver the defendant to the United States Marshal for the purpose of an appearance in connection with all court proceedings.
